Valuation method

The valuation of 100% of the equity interest in Shouguang Maolong was arrived at using the asset-based approach.

The Valuer advised the Company that it has considered all basic valuation methods, including market approach, income approach and asset-based approach, has analysed the applicability of various valuation methods, and has selected valuation method based on the valuation purpose, valuation object, value type, and data collection.

The Valuer explained that the asset-based approach is based on the balance sheet, which is a valuation method involving a reasonable assessment of the value of various assets and liabilities on and off the balance sheet of an enterprise for the determination of their value. Based on this valuation method, the complete financial information and asset management information of Shouguang Maolong is at the Valuer’s disposal, and there is a wide range of relevant data and information sources on the re-acquisition costs of assets. A comprehensive checking and assessment of Shouguang Maolong's assets and liabilities can be carried out. Hence, the asset-based approach was applied to the valuation.

Assumptions

The Valuer has made the following assumptions regarding the valuation:

1. The valuation results reflect the market value for a specific valuation purpose, and do not take into account the asset charges and guarantees that the enterprise may assume in the future, as well as the impact on the valuation in respect of possible additional consideration paid by special transaction parties or special transaction methods etc..
2. It is a basic assumption that the valuation is based on the specific valuation purpose listed in the asset valuation report.
3. It is assumed that there will be no major changes in current relevant national laws, regulations and policies and the macroeconomic situation after the valuation reference date, there will be no major changes in the political, economic and social environment of the regions where the parties to the transaction are located, and there will be no material adverse effects caused by other unpredictable and force majeure factors.
4. It is assumed that there will be no major changes in the nation's relevant interest rates, exchange rates, tax bases and tax rates, policy levy and fees etc.
5. It is assumed that the assets have no ownership defects, or that all existing ownership defects have been disclosed.
6. It is assumed that the basic information and financial information provided by the target entity is true, accurate and complete.
7. The going concern assumption of the enterprise: The going concern assumption of the enterprise assumes that the business of the enterprise being evaluated is legal, that there will be no unforeseen factors that will cause it to be unable to continue its operations, and that the current purpose of the assets being evaluated remains unchanged and will continue to be used at the same location.
8. Transaction assumption: The transaction assumption assumes that all assets to be appraised are already in the process of trading, and the valuer conducts valuation by market comparison based on transaction conditions of the assets to be appraised. The trading assumption is a fundamental condition and assumption for asset valuation.
9. Open market assumption: The open market assumption assumes that in respect of assets traded in the market, or assets to be traded in the market, both parties to the asset transaction have equal status and have the opportunity and time to obtain sufficient market information in order to make rational judgments about its functions, uses and transaction prices. The open market assumption is based on the fact that assets can be traded openly in the market.

The Valuer advised that the bases and assumptions of the valuation are those commonly used in equity valuation in sale transactions

Based on the above bases, methodologies and assumptions, the Board considers that the valuation performed by the Valuer is fair, reasonable and appropriate.

Completion is conditional upon the fulfilment of the following conditions:

1. the parties to the Equity Transfer Agreement having obtained all necessary approval(s) in respect of the transactions contemplated under the Equity Transfer Agreement, including but not limited to all approval(s), consent(s), authorisation(s), registration(s) and filing(s) from their board of directors, shareholders, relevant government department(s), regulatory authority(ies) (including the Stock Exchange), organisation(s) or any other third parties; and
